It's not an ICT issue.

It's a community issue.

“Children will be children –
pushing boundaries and taking risks.

At a public swimming pool we have gates, put up signs, have lifeguards and shallow ends,
but we also teach children how to swim.”

Tanya Byron,

Safer Children in a Digital World

Benefits of the Internet:

Educational games and programs.

Researching information.

Communicating with others from all over the world.

Sharing ideas with friends that have the same interests.

and just having fun...

Risks of using the Internet:

Paedophiles use the internet to meet young people.

People lying and bullying online.

Seeing inappropriate images and material.

Viruses, pop-ups and adult advertisements.

Why is eSafety awareness important?

55% of children access the internet every day.

47% of those did so for an hour or more.

Why is eSafety awareness important?

21% of children use chat services like Instant Messenger.

33% use the Internet in their bedrooms.

Why is eSafety awareness important?

25% have met someone that they first met online and did not take anyone with them.

... those who did took a friend not a trusted adult.

It's not just about “computers” anymore...

How is technology used to abuse and exploit children?

Production, distribution & viewing of abusive or sexual material.

Online solicitation to produce self-generated imagery, engage in sexual chat or activity (online or offline).

Felicitating the above.

How is technology used to abuse and exploit children?

It's an old problem but we should remember that "online" victims are still victims.

It's about how people behave, not the technology.

What are they up to?

blogging, gaming, social networking,
sharing or stealing music & video (P2P),
using bluetooth & bluejacking
using chat (IM), Poken, emailing, sexting, tweeting, geo-location.

Bluetooth

Not just about headsets.

take part, take pride

Bluetooth

Transmits images to other mobiles within ten meters

Can be bluejacked or “hacked”

Should be turned off or hidden when not in use

Generation sexting: What teenage girls really get up to on the internet should chill every parent

Like a real porn star, Becky is heavily made up and lying naked on the bed as the camera flashes. She could be just another glamorous model as she poses provocatively with practised moves. But she isn't. Shockingly, Becky is just 17 and still at school. She's filming herself in a friend's bedroom in a large, detached house in leafy suburbia as her schoolfriends party downstairs.

I discovered this trend - one which will horrify parents everywhere - during a BBC Radio 4 investigation into online pornography.

Get involved:

Move the computer or console to a family area.

Discuss the issues openly.

Ask children to teach you how to use their favourite websites.

Lead them to expect that you will ask them who they are chatting with.

Things to look out for:

Excessive use of the computer, phone or games console.

Aggressive behaviour regarding the internet.

Secretive behaviour.

Change in sexual language.

More tips:

Help your children to understand they should never give out personal information.

Use a nickname online.

Show them that online friends are really strangers.

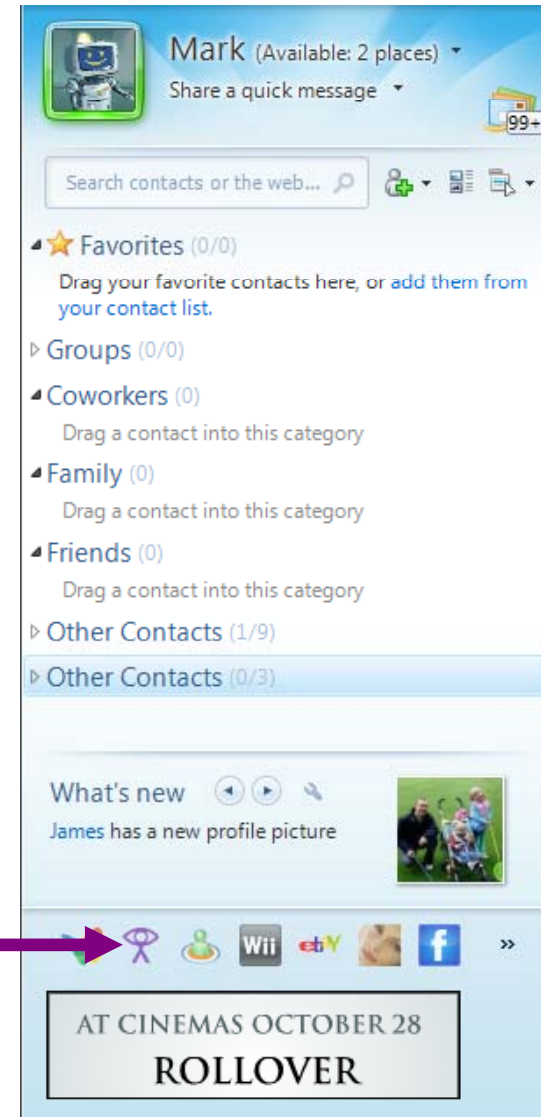

If your child receives junk mail or texts remind them never to reply or follow the links.

Chat: Instant Messenger (IM)

The image shows a screenshot of the Ask Kids search engine interface. On the left, there is a sidebar with the Ask Kids logo, navigation links for 'All', 'Images', and 'Video', a search box containing the word 'sex', and a list of 'Kids Hotspots' including 'Schoolhouse', 'Movies', and 'Games'. The main content area features a large orange robot character with a speech bubble that says 'Beep!' and a message: 'Your search did not match any Web results.' Below this, there are search suggestions: 'Search suggestions:' followed by a bulleted list: '• Make sure all words are spelled correctly', '• Try different keywords', '• Try general keywords', '• Try fewer keywords', and '• View more Search Tips'. At the bottom of the suggestions is a link that says '➔ Try again'. A copyright notice '© 2009 Ask.com' is visible at the bottom left of the main content area.
